

This document contains in order:

(1) The original will (1pps)

This is of interest because of the effects continued in the family for twenty years. Dated 7 Nov 1888, William was 38 years old and knew he was dying of diabetes. He died 11 July 1889. At the time of his death Ellen was 33, Lily 8, Flossie 6, Adelaide 5, Len 3, and Ern had just turned 2. The farm (324 acres) was left to the two boys, not to be sold or encumbered till Ern turned 25. In the interim the farm was to be used for the support of Ellen and the children. For any sale after Ern turns 25, 1/3 was to be shared between the (three) girls, Separate to this Ellen was left 90 acres, a shared of 418 acres held with William B and Brad. The "selected land" left to the boys is presumably the assets described as "leasehold" in the asset list (315 acres total).

Witnesses were William's father (William B) and sister Clara, in Wodonga. Executor was brother Fred (26 at the time William died). Interestingly Fred is described as a farmer in the probate documents, but has no joint assets as Brad did. Perhaps this is because Brad is older (34). Why was Fred chosen as executor? With 22 years for the estate to run, perhaps age was important.

(2) Probate affidavit by Clara, 31st Dec 1889, at Albury (3pps)

There is a similar document from William Burton. Routine stuff, except for the statement that William had been frequently told by his father to make a will because "he was suffering from diabetes, which is a fatal disease". You also wonder whether William's interruption of the reading through of the will shows him feeling understandably depressed. "I have no need to hear any more of it. Let us sign it."

Probate was pounds 30/10/4

(3) Statement of Assets ad Liabilities as at William's death (6pps)

This gives a thumbnail sketch of Whiteford at the time.

Weatherboard house 24 ft by 22 ft, 4 rooms, 10 years old.

Weatherboard storeroom 20 ft by 14 ft, iron roof, 6 years old.

Weatherboard kitchen 20 ft by 12 ft, iron roof, 5 years old.

Dairy 10 ft by 8 ft, brick, shingle roof, 5 years old.

Hayshed 50 ft by 40 ft

A one acre fruit garden, eight years old

The net value of the estate (land, improvements, stock) was put at 3,953 pounds.

(4) Three Months Inventory (3pps) filed 3 July 1890

The reference to "last years floods" would be to spring floods in 1898 after William's death. The stock lost were in inventory at William's death. The losses would have been exacerbated by William being gone.

William B and Brad would only have to be on the other side of the river to be unable to help. Where were their properties? Were they still at Hillsborough (twenty miles away)? They are referred to in (3) as Graziers, Bethanga. Losing over a hundred pounds worth of stock must have really brought home to Ellen the difficulty of her position.

66 bullocks (25 were lost in last years flood, and 17 had been sold).

13 cows, two 2 year olds, and 15 calves (3 died in the floods)

110 ewes, of which 62 had been sold, 26 lost in flood, and 12 killed for eating, leaving only 10.

1 draught mare, 1 draught foal, 3 draught colts, 4 saddle horses, 1 half draught foal

Farming implements, including blacksmiths bellows, anvil, etc

Household furniture, nearly all bush made

(5) Fifteen Months Account (8pps)

From the asset list it looks as if all the bullocks and sheep have been sold.

Total distribution to Ellen 55 pounds.

An interesting item was 7 pounds 19 s to Dr Mueller for medical attendance and wine. Was this wine for diabetes treatment?

Law costs were nearly 97 pounds. There was also repayment of an overdraft of 129 pounds.

It looks as if the family had not yet settled on the long term running of the farm, as most stock was sold, and there is no sign of hired labour in any quantity, nor of renting out the land.
